

1 March 2006

Barnaby Flowers: the next D-Generation?

Part narrative and part sketch-comedy Barnaby Flowers Comeback Special is the show within a show that's breathing new life into Channel 31, Tuesdays at 9.30pm.

If you like Monty Python, Micallef and The Late Show you should tune in; Barnaby Flowers is doing something new with comedy and a different Melbourne band performs original music on the show each week. It's like nothing else on TV at the moment.

"The Barnaby Flowers team remind me of the D-Generation, the talent laden ABC show of the late 80s spawning greats like Rob Sitch, Magda Szubanski and Michael Veitch," said Channel 31 Station Manager Greg Dee.

The production of Barnaby Flowers is a collaborative effort by students and young performers, all volunteers. The five member cast was chosen from more than 100 applicants.

"Everyone involved in Barnaby Flowers is committed to producing quality entertainment as well as having a good time - that's what sets us apart," said Executive Producer Josh Mahoney.

Barnaby Flowers is broadcast live from the studios of RMITV at RMIT University, Melbourne. Visit the Barnaby Flowers website at www.barnabyflowers.com to book your seat in the audience.

For more information, please contact:

Josh Mahoney
Executive Producer
Mobile: 0408 021 279
Email: info@barnabyflowers.com
Website: <http://www.barnabyflowers.com>

Barnaby Flowers Comeback Special Live on Channel 31, Tuesdays 9.30pm Repeated on Sundays at 1.00am
--